Program Descriptions:

Thursday Group Clinic—Thursday morning is the time for golf instruction. For the junior golfers not quite ready to tackle a weekly golf league, the Thursday group clinic is the perfect fit. This program will spend four sessions on the practice range and putting green, and the final session will offer a taste of the golf course in a fun event. The instructional sessions will start with the pre-swing basics and proceed through the short game, the full swing and everything in between. The final session will be an on-course event with tips on course etiquette and the rules of golf, followed by a chance to play the course.

Tuesday 9-Hole League—This league runs for 7 sessions and is geared toward junior golfers who are ready for 9-hole events on a regulation-length golf course. Individual and team events will expose league members to a variety of games within the game. Course etiquette, the rules of golf, and general course information will be reviewed at the start of the league. This is an on-course golf league and will not include instruction.

The Hybrid League—Each session of this league will combine a 30-minute group lesson with 9 holes of golf. Over the three sessions of the league, golfers will expand their fundamental skills, from full swing to short game to course management, and immediately put them into action on the golf course. The Hybrid League is geared toward golfers ready to play 9 holes at a good pace.

Fox Hollow Boys Spring League—This league is geared toward any middle school or high school golfer looking for a comprehensive program that includes instruction, practice range time, on-course time, and on-course competition, all in preparation to make a school golf team in 2018 and beyond. Mixed in with PGA instruction from Head Professional Eric Larson and on-course practice at Fox Hollow, we will play competitive rounds and track scores throughout the spring, giving the boys a taste of team golf. The Boys Spring League will meet on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays for six weeks, offering 18 sessions of spring golf.

Fox Hollow Girls Spring League—This league is perfect for girls looking to play on their high school team in the next year or two. The program mixes practice range time and short-game work, with on-course time and a taste of competitive team golf.
